

Question 2

Q: What do the positive and negative components of normal stress or strain represent?

A: A positive value corresponds to tensile stress or tensile strain, while a negative value corresponds to compressive stress or compressive strain.